

The Wine Spectator has awarded John Ash & Co. restaurant with its Best of Award of Excellence.

To win this Wine Spectator award, a restaurant must offer a wine list that includes wines appropriate to its cuisine while appealing to a wide range of wine lovers. The Best of Award of Excellence, given to just over 600 restaurants in the world, means that a restaurant's wine list typically offers 400 or more selections and demonstrates either excellent breadth spread over several winegrowing regions or vertical offerings of several top producers from major regions.

Chef Thomas Schmidt complements the award-winning wine list with inspired wine country cuisine that showcases the freshest of locally grown products and best of artisan producers.

The Wine Spectator looked at restaurants from New York to Norway to come up with its "Best of Award of Excellence winners," said Rhonda Carano, who with her husband Don owns John Ash & Co. restaurant. "We feel honored that John Ash & Co. was included on such an esteemed list."

With the most acclaimed outdoor dining experience in Sonoma, John Ash & Co. is open daily for your dining pleasures, al fresco on the terrace or indoors next to the fireplace.
